Trinity Health Of New England (THOfNE) includes Saint Francis Hospital and Medical Center and Mount Sinai Rehabilitation Hospital in Hartford, Conn., Saint Mary’s Hospital in Waterbury and Johnson Memorial Hospital in Stafford Springs, Conn., and Mercy Medical Center in Springfield, Mass. In addition, THOfNE includes a clinically integrated network, physician practices, ambulatory services, home health and post-acute care. We are nearly 10,000 health care providers committed to being a healing and transforming presence in the communities we serve. Saint Francis Hospital and Medical Center, Saint Mary’s Hospital and Mercy Medical Center participate in the 340B Program.

Benefits of the 340B Program in the communities we serve
Saint Francis, Saint Mary’s, and Mercy use the 340B program savings to help our community by identifying and responding to unmet community needs.

At Saint Francis, a great example is the Mandell Center for Comprehensive Multiple Sclerosis Care and the enhanced patient care it provides. The center focuses on patients that typically have reduced access to care and that are at a high risk for health inequities. These programs help patients navigate a complex web of community services. In addition, they offer extensive community programming and support groups focused on wellness and prevention.

Saint Mary's involvement in the Greater Waterbury Health Improvement Partnership is an example of the impact of the 340B program. The 340B program supports reinvesting resources back into the community through new technologies, exceptional care and needed health services. The partnership is an outstanding team of community organizations focused on a comprehensive approach to assessing and impacting the health needs and priorities of Waterbury and surrounding towns. Areas of focus include access to care, mental health and substance abuse, chronic disease, tobacco use and asthma, and health communications.

Mercy's Healthcare for the Homeless (HCH) program is an example of the impact of the 340B program in Springfield. Since 1983, HCH has been an ongoing and expanding effort to identify homeless persons in Western Massachusetts, assess their needs and resources and deliver health and social services. Services are provided daily throughout the year with on-site coverage throughout Hampden, Franklin and Hampshire counties. Mercy Medical Center is the cornerstone of the HCH program, providing laboratory, imaging, and inpatient services.

Congress should preserve and protect the 340B program as an essential safety-net for Medicaid and underserved populations in our community.
